

Eastwood Park announces agreement with new Middle East partner

Eastwood Park Training is delighted to announce a formal partnership with Qatari German Medical Devices (QGMD). The organisation is a leading manufacturer of medical devices in the Middle East and serves a worldwide market through a state of the art production facility in Doha, Qatar.

Eastwood Park, CEO, John Thatcher commented: "We have been discussing mutual ways of working together on international projects and are now pleased to see the partnership start to come to fruition. These are exciting next steps ahead for both organisations to move forward together."

Qatar German Medical Devices, Chairman, Mr Hamad Khamis Al Kubaisi added: "We are seeking to develop a strategy as a medical services provider. The cooperation with Eastwood Park will be an additional step for us to achieve this vision."

Eastwood Park Training delivers a wide portfolio of hospital support services training including decontamination, hospital engineering, estates and facilities management. Eastwood Park continues to provide training services that are independent and encompass all suppliers relevant to the current hospital sector. To find out more visit eastwoodparktraining.co.uk.

ENDS

Media enquiries: Helen Cornes, Helen.cornes@eastwoodpark.co.uk or + (0) 1454 262819

Editor's Notes:

Qatari German Medical Devices Ltd, is a leading public company and manufacturer of medical devices in the Middle East, supplying needles, syringes and other medical supplies in accordance with international standards. With its headquarters in Doha, Qatar, it boasts a state of the art production facility designed by innovative technology providers from Germany, Switzerland and Italy.